Where can I see my $50,000 Homestead Exemption?

Look at the bottom left corner of your TRIM notice, marked "exemptions" and you will see a breakdown of each exemption applied to your property, including the additional Homestead Exemption.

You will receive full benefit of the additional $25,000 Homestead Exemption if your property's assessed value is $75,000 or more. If your assessed value is less than $75,000 but greater than $50,000, you will receive an additional Homestead Exemption equal to the amount of assessed value between $50,000 and $75,000. If your property's assessed value is $50,000 or less, unfortunately, the property is not eligible to receive any benefit from the additional Homestead Exemption.

Ways You Can Lose Your Homestead Exemption

1. Receiving a residency-based exemption on a property in another county or state.
2. Renting your homesteaded property more than 30 days in 2 consecutive years.
3. Having a driver’s license in another state or voting outside of Brevard County.

Changes in Your Property’s Title

If you have made changes to the title of your property such as a change in marital status or you put your homesteaded property in a trust or life-estate in the last year, you must re-apply for homestead exemption. State law requires that you re-apply if your property’s title changed in any way. The deadline for applying for any exemption is March 1st.

Field Inspections of Properties

Florida law requires the Property Appraiser to conduct field inspections of each parcel every 5 years. When visiting your property, our staff will be easily identified by badges and shirts with both the Brevard Property Appraiser logo on the front and “COUNTY APPRAISER” on the back. Thank you for your help and assistance.
